Stockhouse Capital ("Stockhouse") (Pty) Ltd is committed to the highest standards of transparency and accountability. It is, therefore, expected that all employees, clients, and other stakeholders, who have serious concerns about our business practices, come forward and voice these concerns. Stockhouse has implemented a Whistleblowing policy which provides rules applicable to those who wish to blow the whistle on any form of impropriety that may have occurred within the company. The impropriety may include any concerns about crime, failure to comply with any legal duty (including negligence, breach of contract, and breach of administrative law), a miscarriage of justice, danger to health and safety, damage to the environment, discrimination and/or the deliberate cover up of any of these, including concerns about past, present, and future impropriety. The provisions of the Protected Disclosures Act No. 26 of 2000 remain authoritative in case of any conflict between the provisions of the Stockhouse Whistleblowing policy and those contained in the Act.
